SOLAR-POWERED SNOW

The little town of Greenwood is the birthplace of L.L. Bean's founder, Leon Leonwood Bean, and home to the world's largest solar-powered ski area, Mount Abram. A great family "throwback" ski experience, the mountains 30+ trails provide runs for all levels of skiers. Don't be surprised to see lots of telemark skiers carving the slopes and boarders on the terrain park. The cozy lodge has plenty of goodies to warm you up.

FRESH BREWS WITH A NORWEGIAN TWIST

Growlers make it easy to bring a favorite home.

How appropriate skiing in the region takes you through Norway...Maine, the former home of Paris Manufacturing, one of the earliest ski makers in the U.S. Just off Route 26 on Main Street is Norway Brewing Company, a favorite watering hole for microbrew connoisseurs. The family-run brewery offers an ever-changing, eclectic menu with not to be missed Belgian fries and guilt-laden doughnuts. Their small batch brews are tasty and available in a 4 oz. serving, if you happen to be the driver.

WHIMSICAL WINTER WALK

Bring along a pair of snowshoes because there's treasure buried in the western hills of Maine. Stop at Shepard's Farm Family Preserve, part of the Bernard Langlais Sculpture Trail, with more than 50 locations throughout the state. This Maine artist's whimsical wood sculptures and reliefs are exhibited indoors and outside.

Norway's Shepard's Farm Family Preserve trails are home for six of these tall works of art.
